192,510, Revenue: 1,000,000 The COPD Gene Study cohort consists of over 10,000 individuals who have COPD or are at risk of developing COPD. The objective of the study is to analyze genetic variations to identify the primary genes that determine why some individuals are more susceptible to developing COPD than others. Identifying genetic factors that contribute to this disease will help us understand the biological mechanisms involved, which will ultimately lead to better treatments and improved outcomes for patients. The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute has funded the second phase of the COPD Gene Study. In this second phase, patients will continue to be followed to determine longitudinal changes in disease development and progression.

latest therapies, pertinent legislative issues, patient stories and other useful information for individuals living with COPD and their caregivers and families worldwide. The COPD Digest fills a knowledge gap about COPD management that exists in both the patient and physician population. The Lung Health Professional magazine is produced quarterly and is written for primary care physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, respiratory therapists and other allied healthcare professionals. Its circulation reaches over 25,000 subscribers, and is available free of charge. Journal of the COPD Foundation is an open-access, peer-reviewed medical and scientific journal dedicated to publishing original research, reviews, and individuals with COPD or at risk of developing COPD who have consented to be contacted for participation in research. The Registry is a great source to facilitate research since potential study candidates have already been identified who are willing to participate in COPD research. The goal is to help facilitate research by creating this resource. The Bronchiectasis Research Registry is a consolidated database of 1,800 individuals with non-CF Bronchiectasis and/or Nontuberculosis Mycobacteria (NTM). The goal of the Bronchiectasis

Registry is to support collaborative research and assist in the planning of multi-center clinical trials for the treatment of non-CF Bronchiectasis, a progressive, non-curable lung disease which afflicts thousands of patients, and NTM. The data in the Registry is collected by a consortium of physicians from 14 academic medical centers across the U.S. The Registry's
